

Bachelor of Science Psychology

Program Purpose: The TROY program in psychology gives the student grounding in the study of human psychology from early development to adulthood, covering a variety of psychological concepts and theories, statistics, and research and analysis.

Psychology is the science concerned with the understanding of behavior and mental processes. A major in psychology provides students with (1) a useful foundation for study at the graduate level, leading to various careers in psychology, or to study in the health professions and social work; (2) skills related to employment at the baccalaureate level for the pursuit of careers in mental health services, industry, human resources, and research.
